MISS YOUNG'S BECOMES BRIDE OF P. FRANKLIN JR.

METTER, Ga., — One of the loveliest ceremonies of the early spring social season took place Friday afternoon, March 18, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. S. Youngman when their daughter, Miss Anne Adams Youngman, became the bride of P. Franklin Jr., of the Statesboro. The Rev. T. L. Harnsberger, pastor of the Statesboro Presbyterian church, read the marriage rites at four o'clock in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends.

Miss Nancy Jones, pianist, and Inman Easton, vocalist, presented a program of musical music preceding and during the ceremony. The couple said their vows in the living room before an improvised altar with a backdrop of ivy against which was silhouetted arrangements of white gladioli and white snapdragons interspersed with candelabra. High in holding white lighted tapers. High lighting the altar, arranged before the fireplace, were gladioli and candelabra on the mantel reflected in a large mirror.

Little Miss Joy Huckabee, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Huckabee, of Reidsville, and the bride's cousin, Miss Mary, of Reidsville, and Mrs. Geo. Lane, was matron of honor. They were gowned alike in powder blue tulle in bouffant style. They carried bouquets of pink snapdragons and yellow roses, tied with pink satin ribbons and wore in their hair bouquets of powder blue maline. Emory Allen served as best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiantly beautiful in her wedding gown of exquisite duchess satin fashioned with sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice, long fitted sleeves and a full skirt that extended into a court train. Her veil of illusion was attached to a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid with yellow throat and showered with stephanotis and ribbons.

The bride's parents entertained at a reception immediately following the ceremony. The bride's father, overlaid with an Italian cloth of cutwork and lace, was centered with the tiered wedding cake encircled with a white satin ribbon ruffle and florets of gladioli. Silver candelabra, burning (4-31-2p)

WHITE CANDLES, FLANKED THE CENTERPIECE, and at each end of the table was a silver coffee service at which Mrs. Roy Wadewick, of Marietta, Fla., and Mrs. Lehan Franklin, of Statesboro, presided.

On the buffet were white gladioli, white snapdragon and silver candelabra. Throughout the rooms were arrangements of the white gladioli and snapdragons carrying out the white and green note as did the individual mistle, the individual cakes and the ices molded in the form of Easter lilies.

Mrs. Youngman chose for her daughter's wedding an ash of roses sheer, trimmed in matching lace, accented by a purple orchid corsage.

Mrs. P. G. Franklin, mother of the bridegroom, wore French blue crepe with a purple orchid corsage.

Miss Barbara Franklin, sister of the bridegroom, kept the bride's look. A coterie of young girls and matrons assisting in serving were Mrs. Kennedy Dekle, Mrs. Harold Hall, Miss Jean Tillman, Miss Mary Baggett, Mrs. Jeff Newberry, of Valdosta.

Mr. Franklin and his bride left for a wedding trip to Miami and other Florida points, the latter traveling in a toast garbade suit with green accessories and a white orchid worn on the lapel of her coat. They will make their home in Statesboro.

Among out-of-town guests were Misses Ethel and Annie Mae Adams, of Moultrie; Mrs. W. E. Adams, of Thomas; Mrs. J. W. Adams, of Macon; Dr. and Mrs. Roy Wadewick, of Marietta; and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Huckabee, of Reidsville; Dr. and Mrs. Paul G. Franklin, Miss Barbara Franklin, of Lumberton, N. Bulloch to Get $292,401 If Vote Is 'Yes' April 5

Additional funds for the public schools, local roads and welfare payments under the State's program of expanded services total $292,401.91 for this county, in addition to a full portion of other benefits that Bulloch County will share with the rest of the state.

This total of $292,401.91 would come in direct payments to the school systems of the county, the county government for roads, and to the individuals and families on the county welfare rolls.

The State referendum of April 5 puts the voters of Bulloch county square on trial, according to a joint appeal issued this week by President H. L. Wingate of the Farm Bureau Federation, Dr. O. A. Adershold, head of the Georgia Education Association, State Commander Eric Cooke Jr. of the American Legion, and President Frank C. Underwood Jr. of the Georgia Vocational Association.

The following is an analysis of the advantages to this county if the proposal is approved at the polls next week.

For the schools, it will bring approximately $206,608 to Bulloch in additional state money. Rural roads will get approximately $80,103.91 in addition to the county's allocated share of the four million dollars for post road construction. Payments to old-age and other pensioners will be increased by $25,600.

Provision also is made to replace many obsolete school houses, and the road program will prevent country roads from being closed many days in the year because of impassable conditions, which necessitate children making up lost time by stretching the school term into the late spring and summer when they are most needed at home.

It will make available $250,000 to repair and restore run down school houses, eliminating dangerous firetraps.

According to Colonel Ellis, equipment including radar guns,

Go Out and Vote Next Tuesday

TUESDAY OF next week—April 5—citizens of Georgia will go to the polls and speak their minds.

For weeks they have been bombarded with all sorts of arguments for and against.

And to the average citizen—the ones who will vote—the whole thing is confusing.

But put in a simple statement—if you vote "I favor . . ." you will be giving the General Assembly a free rein to go ahead with a tax program to raise $15,985,000.

If you vote "I favor . . ." it means that Bulloch County will get a total of $292,401.91 for public schools, local roads, and welfare payments under the expanded services called for under the contingent appropriations.

Of this $292,401.91 the schools of the county will receive approximately $206,008 in additional state money. Rural roads will get approximately $60,103.91, in addition to the county's share of the four million dollars for post road construction. Payments to old-age and other pensioners will be increased by $25,600.

If you vote "I favor . . ." and enough others in the state vote with you to make up a majority to favor the General Assembly providing more taxes for expanded services, then the Governor will call the legislature into extra session to find ways and means of raising the $45,985,000.

The Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers favors the program. The Georgia Farm Bureau favors the program. The Georgia Education Association favors the program. The Georgia Farm Bureau favors the program.

And Governor Talmadge has said:

East or west of the state.

We know of no example where such concessions and inducements are made to young people with little capital—without making but an idea and a lot of intestinal fortitude.

Yet in spite of all the hurdles young Braswell is pitting the name "Statesboro" on products that are finding themselves in the hands of people from Maine to Florida. His artichoke pickles and watermelon rind preserves are on sale at many highway stand-stalls on main tourist arteries.

Let's encourage local industry. Sure.

But let's encourage local industry by local citizens, using local products, for local and wide-spread distribution.

The speaker was emphasizing the need of cooperation. "All organizations need the cooperation of their members to do effective work," he said.

"Too often, however, the kind of cooperation we see is like that of the two men hunting lions. Toward evening they chanced upon the tracks of what appeared to be a large lion.

"The size of the tracks cooled the ardor of the hunters somewhat, but one of them, showing certain qualities of leadership, turned to his companion and said, 'What we need in a situation like this is cooperation. These tracks are undoubtedly those of a large and ferocious lion. Only by working together can we hope to accomplish our purpose. So I will backtrack on the lion to determine where he came from and you follow these fresh tracks and find out where he went.'"

These people all come to Statesboro with some 15 to 27 years experience in the packing business.

These people are moving their families here. They are making homes here. They will attend church here, send their children to school here, and spend their earnings here.

These people will give employment to 35 people for average production.

These people have spent a lot of money on a modern packing plant.

And they are giving the consumer a product that is "as good as any on the market," according to several meat market operators here.

Robbins Packing Company trucks will be seen from Brunswick to Augusta.

These people have faith in this community. They are buying products produced in this community.

They are using people of this community in their manufacturing processes.

They are proving that Statesboro can have an industry and it be all Bulloch County.

As shown by a recent survey by the Georgia Power Company, Bulloch county's industrial future is tied up in just this sort of industry—processing of local products.

It now becomes the duty of every citizen in this section to support this enterprise.

It belongs to you and you, and you.

Promote it.

An Idea . . . Plus

THE BEGINNING operations of the Robbins Packing Company here last week focuses attention on another local industry which deserves the cheers and support of every person in the county.

In 1947 young Albert Braswell built a canning plant out on Zetterow avenue. He puts up fresh fruits, pickles—using fruits and vegetables raised by Bulloch County people.

His production is seasonal, but he told us this week he plans for the future, year-round production.

Young Braswell had a rough time getting in operation. He found hurdles in his way which he had to fight.

Hurdles which should not have been there. At times it seemed that Lady Luck frowned upon him and his efforts.

And the community seemed indifferent. We complain about the loss of young people to other and larger centers.

Can on wonder, when we seem to abandon our young people as they venture into something that requires community cooperation.

" . . . We must provide adequate education such as outlined in the comprehensive program sponsored by the Georgia Education Association.

Last summer, in my campaign speeches, I said that your program is 'good business for Georgia and should be adopted at the earliest possible time.' We should not be content until every school child in Georgia has (1) a competent teacher; (2) a well designed and equipped classroom; (3) Safe transportation; and (4) an adequate supply of text books and other instructional aids. . . . I want to see our children in rural Georgia and in urban centers have just as good educational opportunity as is offered in any other section of our nation."

Organized labor is against the program. Merchants' associations in many Georgia cities are against the program.

But, we all agree that the state needs better schools, better roads, and more and better health and welfare services.

And that we must pay for these services also goes without saying.

How?

That's the responsibility you place upon the General Assembly if you vote "I favor . . ."

We have already stated positively in these columns that we shall vote "I favor . . ."

We believe that the progress of Georgia warrants our stand—and accept all the risk that goes with giving our legislature the authority to raise the $45,985,000.

You may not agree with us.

That makes no difference to us.

But it is important that you VOTE on April 5.

Your Health

TB AND CHILDREN

Although tuberculosis is primarily a disease of adults, nearly 1-300 children under five years of age die of it annually.

Many people believe that pulmonary tuberculosis, or TB of the lungs, is the rarest type among small children. Yet of the total number of deaths from tuberculosis in the pre-school group, more than a third are caused directly by the pulmonary form. And the remaining deaths are due to two kinds of tuberculosis that are usually complications of the pulmonary form—tuberculous meningitis, an infection of the covering of the brain by tuberculosis germs, and miliary tuberculosis, which is the result of scattering tuberculous germs throughout all organs of the body through the bloodstream.

A few decades ago, many young children suffered from tuberculosis of the joints and bones, a form of the disease that wasn't allowed him sing. "I can tell when people are enjoying my singing," he says. "And I sing better. I sing to them."

We wouldn't mind growing old . . . if we could successfully use his formula.

ATLANTA IS whooping up its dogwoods again this year.

A two-page spread in the magazine section of one of the papers Sunday glorifies that most beautiful tree.

In Atlanta makes a great to-do over what we here in Statesboro just take for granted.

When one builds a new home here the first tree that graces the front yard is a dogwood.

A drive along South Main street and Zetterow avenue this week would make a citizen of Atlanta wonder why we here in Statesboro don't promote our dogwood.

In a few years College boulevard will be one of the show streets in this section.

Every day hundreds of tourists drive through Statesboro and see only the dogwood along South Main street.

Proper promotion could keep more of these people following the sun here overnight or over the weekend.

It's an idea.

WE THOUGHT we were really running into something one afternoon last week. We spotted quite a number of cars and two mules and plows in front of the R. W. Mundy's. We thought possibly it might be sort of a dedication ceremony of the lot owned by the La-Fice Collieries. It so happened that Joy Mundy was having a bridge party and her small son, Ward, had parked his stroller in the driveway and the cars had to be left on the street. The mules and plows were part of the plan for a community gardening effort in which Merle Collins says that Joy and Rube will work a garden and that she and Bud will garden the vegetables . . .

MASKED BANDITS were running loose Friday afternoon and under the influence of so many mystery yarns we traced them to their hide-out in behind the B. V. Collins home. In this group who promptly held me up but didn't do so well on the money side—were Bill Eastland (who wanted to know if I was writing for the Atlanta paper), Robert Franklin, Lehman Franklin, Dennis DeLoach, Pete Johnson, Al McDougald and Bobby Bland . . .

PATSY HAGAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Logan Hagan and Shirley Holmby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Helmy, though missing spring holidays at home, had the time of their young lives as they sang in Washington, D. C. and New York City and sang over the NBC network from Radio
